100th Year — No. 11 | TRUCKEE, NEVADA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1969 | SINCE 1869

One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

Another centennial of note will occur this spring, and one gets the impression that 1869 was a year of some accomplishment.

In addition to the 100th birthday of the transcontinental railroad and the Sierra Sun on May 10 (this sounds a little specious, aligning ourselves with occasions of historical magnitude, but its important to us), May 24 is the 100th anniversary of John Wesley Powell's momentous expedition down the unknown Colorado River.

Powell was probably the last explorer – in the fine old tradition of striking off bravely into the unknown – to open wild lands within the United States, and was certainly of the same mold as his illustrious predecessors. Men like Coronado, Lewis and Clark, and Jedediah Smith, to recall but a few, journeyed into vast and totally unknown areas, without benefit of trails, prior knowledge or even the crudest map.

When Powell and nine men pushed their boats into the Green River at Green River Station, Wyo., on May 24, 1869, they embarked upon an incredible journey of 1,000 miles down into dark canyons of no return.

They rode the Green from Wyoming into Utah and a corner of Colorado, past the mouth of the Yampa, back into Utah, finally joining the tributary Colorado (the Green is the larger river but assumes the name Colorado at their confluence) in the wild Canyonlands country, today a national park.

They continued to brave waterfalls, awesome cataracts, boulders, whirlpools and undercut cliffs as they passed Dirty Devil River and the muddy San Juan flowing out of the four corners region, and finally they were in Arizona and the mighty Grand Canyon itself.

Nearly 100 days after embarking – on August 30, 1869 – the party came ashore near the mouth of the Virgin River in Nevada. They were understandably acclaimed as national heroes.

Present day river voyages are largely recreational in nature. Mine was a rubber raft trip in 1952. We started from Mexican Hat, Utah, on the San Juan, and dropped from there down into the massive canyons.

The one-armed Powell went in the quest of knowledge. He had made earlier scientific explorations to the source of the South Platte River, to the top of Long's Peak, Colorado, and other remote areas of the Rocky Mountains.

In 1871, Powell journeyed for a second time down the Colorado River, and following that wrote, "The Lands Of The Arid Region Of The United States," a definitive book in which he advocated concepts in water rights and other problems of the Southwest that were far ahead of their time.

Powell's accomplishments led to the creation of the U.S. Geological Survey in 1879, and he became its head in 1887. He was largely responsible for consolidating irrigation surveys which led to the establishment of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in 1902.

John Wesley Powell was the last of a special breed of men who blazed their trails into the unknown and left behind them a heritage that shaped the growth and prosperity of the Western United States.

The vast lake now forming behind Glen Canyon Dam, deep in the heart of the wild wastelands he first explored, is named in his honor.

$50 MILLION DEVELOPMENT

Condominium Gets Approval

A $50 million condominium development at Brockway was approved last week by members of the Placer County Planning Commission. The development is planned for 37 acres of the old Brockway Hotel site.

The proposal for the ultra modern building was unveiled complete with a three-by-six-foot model of the entire development.

The League to Save Lake Tahoe, represented at the meeting by Frank Stead, vice president, sent a letter stating the plan was "excellent in design." It also endorsed the project, providing the developers limit the height of one of the buildings to correspond with county controls.

When a spokesman for the builder, Tahoe Sierra Development Co., said the first proposed high-rise residential unit would be scaled down from 130 feet to 95 feet, objections expressed by local residents were withdrawn. There were 33 letters opposed to the huge building project at the starting of the hearing.

To receive general approval of the over-all plan, the county rezoned the acreage from a hotel zone to commercial where some 785 condominium units in 10 construction phases are to be built. Some are horseshoe-shaped structures, sloping on an incline between California 28 and Lake Tahoe near the California-Nevada state line. Other units are in townhouses and individual apartments.

22 Hurt In 6-Vehicle Underpass Accident

Twenty-two persons were reported injured, six of them seriously enough to be taken to the Tahoe Forest Hospital in Truckee as a result of a six-vehicle accident in the Cisco Grove underpass on Interstate 80 at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Five of the six taken to the hospital were treated and released. A sixth, R. Marcantelli of Antioch, sustained chest injuries. He is reported by hospital personnel in satisfactory condition.

In the accident, all the cars and a Greyhound bus were east bound in a blinding snowstorm on slippery pavement.

According to the California Highway Patrol at Gold Run, two cars became involved in a collision in the underpass and in a chain reaction the other vehicles, including the bus, operated by Azel M. McKinzie, 58, Modesto, skidded out of control.

McKinzie told the CHP that in attempting to avoid striking the first two vehicles, he swerved into the snow-covered divider strip, struck the other vehicles and a parked car.

Four of the more seriously injured were passengers on the bus, the CHP reported. The highway was closed for two hours but traffic was diverted over the Cisco overpass and was not delayed.

Icy roads and snow resulted in numerous minor accidents as thousands of winter sport enthusiasts drove west causing traffic tie-ups.

The chain control was first enforced between the Nevada state line and Truckee and about 3 p.m. was changed from there to the Truckee quarantine station over Donner.

Most of the mishaps, the CHP reported, were results of drivers failing to use caution and skidding out of control on the icy pavement.

Rites Eulogize Thomas Grow

Funeral services for Thomas Lee Grow, 33, a Truckee resident for the past 18 years and son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Grow, former Truckee residents now of Miramonte, were held at 2 p.m. last Friday at the Truckee- Tahoe Mortuary chapel with internment in Sierra Mountain Cemetery.

Grow, a graduate of the Tahoe-Truckee High School and Sierra College, died March 3 in the Veterans Hospital at Reno where he had been a frequent patient for the past seven years.

He was a native of Fresno, born Dec. 12, 1935, and and came to Truckee with his parents. His father was employed at the Sierra Sun for 12 years before leaving for the south.

He is survived by his parents; his widow, Anette, and two sons, Peter, 6, and David, 4 1/2; a sister, Mrs. Sharon Ramey of Oregon, whos husband was former owner of the Sierra Appliance Store in Truckee, and a brother, Bruce, employed by the Truckee Public Utility District.

Check Those Forms Again

Nevada County assessor, Elton A. (Bub) Tobiassen, has stated that many homeowners are returning only one form and by doing this, it is felt that they assume the forms are duplicates.

The assessor states they are "not duplicates" in any manner. One being for the Homeowners' Refund "1968" and the other for the Homeowners' Exemption "1969."

Persons who have discarded either form as a duplicate should either call the assessor's office or obtain a form in person in order that they will not lose the benefit of the exemption or refund, which ever the case may be.

The public is also reminded that it is not necessary that the taxes be paid before filing for the refund or exemption, Tobiassen said.

Those eligible homeowners who have not received their forms may pick them up in the assessor's office at the Courthouse Annex, Nevada City, Calif. Homeowners in the Truckee Area may pick up the form at the County Government Center from Ray Craig, county liaison officer.

Gas Explosion Destroys Home

An early morning explosion at Tahoe City Monday destroyed the rustic stone and wood summer home of Marvin Bloomquist of El Cerrito. The residence was located at Pine Avenue and Willow Street.

A spokesman for the Tahoe City Fire Portection District said cause of the explosion was a broken gas line.

The light sheet metal roof buckled upward in the explosion and some pieces were blown off into the 10-foot snow pack around the cabin. The house was unoccupied.

Snows Just Dig Weekends

It becomes increasingly evident that this area cannot have a weekend without a snow storm.

After a week of cold, cloudy, but reasonably fair weather, another storm struck Sunday morning tieing up traffic and creating inconveniences.

The U. S. Forest Service reported the storm which came in from the east and lasted from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. dropped four inches of fresh snow in Truckee with six inches more on Donner Summit. Precipitation from the storm added .21 of an inch here.

There were 87 inches of snow at the forest service station Monday morning, the pack having settled from the 94 inches recorded a week ago.

Plenty Of Thrills, Spills At Annual Snowshoe Race-Fest

The name of the game was Snowshoe Racing. What happened was a hilarious exhibition contest.

Thrills, spills and excitement can all be added to the report on this event held Sunday at the Elks Lodge in Kings Beach, North Lake Tahoe. The affair was the fourth annual running of webbed feet and was jointly sponsored by the Lake Tahoe Sierra Emblem Club No. 347 and the North Tahoe Sierra Elks Lodge No. 2140.

Overall individual winner on the banjo shaped shoes was Robert Sharp of Incline Village. Sharp led his Telephone Employe team to victory by posting the fastest individual lap time and winning the Snowshoe Sprint. His teammates were Bill Emery, Lecturing Knight of the Elks Lodge, and Jim Sterrett.

Second place was shared between the Elks team, staffed by Jim and Marvin Banta, with Gordon Cady; and the Sierra Pacific Meter Readers teammade up of Leo Stromer, Don Bradley and Jim Emerick.

Third place went to the North Tahoe Firemen's team composed of Jim Hershman, Jerome Vincent and David Lepiste.

The Tahoe City Optimists, represented by Dale Freeland, Elks Exalted Ruler; Don Wilson, and Vaughn Williams were fourth.

In the Ladies division the Emblem Team of Diane Emery, Ellen Cady and Dianne Morrison out-stalked and out-climbed their opponents to win their event.

Boy Scouts from the Tahoe City Troop No. 266 won the junior race.

A surprise team, claiming Dayton, Nevada origin, was a last minute entry in the Ladies races but investigation turned up Freeland and James Morrison as masqueraders. Chief starter, P.E.R. Bob Molsberry called the default when one of the "girls" lost part of her charm, thus exposing the hoax.

Girl Scouts from Cadette Troop 84 in Kings Beach, Sharon Briscoe, Vicki Richlin, Katie Felte, Suzanne Frehrmann, Teresa Ferrari and Susie Maxhimer, led by Mrs. Penny Sevison, presented the flag to the assembly.

According to Race Chairman Sophia Levra, vice chairman and Emblem Club past president, race times were exceptionally close. Only 10 seconds separated the winner and fourth place team, she said, and the ladies run just 26 seconds behind the men.

Nearly 150 persons braved the latest snow storm to participate in the food, fun and frolic of these very amusing events, and many aching sides went home to remind the spectators that they had attended a "Laugh In" Lake Tahoe style, Mrs. Levra concluded.

Recreation Is Key Topic At Meeting

Members of Truckee-Donner Recreation and Park District Board discussed present and future recreation programming as well as office and personnel procedures at the regular meeting Thursday at the County Building in Gateway.

Superntendent Dr. H. P. Tapia announced that efforts are still being made to work out district park use of the Donner Lake West End Beach. He said a rumored sale of the property has still not been finalized.

Among suggestions for new programming was one for a teen-age night club for youths from 16 to 20 and another for a day camp at the park during summer. Both will be taken under advisement. It was requested all suggestions for new program be submitted in writing to the park office.

Efforts to have the ice skating rink cleared by volunteers have failed and it is too expensive to hire the snow removal so the rink will not be open this season.

Board Members authorized Dr. Tapia's attendance later this month at a recreation district legislator's meeting and the quarterly meeting of Recreation District 2 in Sacramento.

Also voted was a donation of $50 to assist the Junior Chamber of Commerce in putting on its annual "Snow Day" for area youngsters.

Members expressed the desire and willingness for the board and the district to cooperate in any way possible in Truckee's Centennial Celebration in May.

It was announced the auditor had completed audit of last year's books and the district was complimented on its bookkeeping efficiency. A new mandatory state system is to be instigated on July 1 under county and state supervision.

First steps in securing Social Security for full time employes were taken. Part time employes will not be covered. It will also start July 1.

Chairman Harry Jamason requested the superintendent prepare a tentative budget for the next fiscal year. This is to be presented to the board at the next regular meeting April 3, 1969.

Warning Issued

Due to extreme snow conditions that now exist, it has become necessary for the Truckee Fire District to have all mobile home owners remove snow and ice from their propane meters and regulators, according to Reuben C. Maki, fire marshal.

Within the last 10 days several explosions and fires have occurred caused by this condition. Removal of snow and ice must be done immediately for the safety of all occupants, Maki said.

Agency Group Gives Priority To Soil Survey

A complete soil survey of Lake Tahoe Basin should have top priority, members of the Technical Advisory Committee of the California Tahoe Regional Agency concluded after an hour-long presentation last Wednesday.

The presentation was made by Leonard R. Wohletz, assistant state conservationist of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Ray C. Borchard, staff conservationist with the USDA soil conservation service, and included display of maps of other areas showing the nature of soils, amounts of rainfall, depth of soil and fertility.

The same type of mapping was proposed for Tahoe.

Dick Heikka, Placer County planning director said he felt such a survey was mandatory pointing out that all of Tahoe's resources elements should be charted.

Fred McLaren, engineer for the Lahontan Regional Water Quality Control district, agreed to the importance of the work, adding that all studies must be tied together.

"This includes soils, water, geology and an aerial survey," he said.

McLaren said the agency should apply for a Public Law 701 planning grant and complete a map to a fixed scale so every element could be envisioned by overlays.

TAC chairman Gary Chase agreed to the need for the study and said the matter would be referred to CTRPA members for action. He said he was disappointed that none of the agency members were present for this presentation.

The next CTRPA meeting is March 19.

Tony Austin Entertains At Chataux

A new sound has come to the Incline Chataux Countryclub restaurant, the sound of Tony Austin & Co., long-time favorites of the Reno-Lake Tahoe area.

This very versatile, entertaining show is now drawing raves nightly, with the exception of Mondays and Tuesdays, in the Chataux Lounge. The rafters are really ringing with the excellent three-part harmony of Tony Austin, Elmer (Nemo) Nemeth and Bob Jackson, grooved in with their swinging solo vocals.

Their musical morsels range from "down-home" blues, Broadway show tunes, Country-Western to the latest pop songs and rythyms of the top "40".

Not limiting their offerings to vocal sound alone, they pour out fine instrumentals, light comedy and impressions of noted celebrities. They really cook up a pot-pourri of nightly amusement and diversion to delight the musical palate.

With Tony on guitar and banjo, Elmer on bass and Bob whaling away at the drums, they reach right out and grab the audience, injecting them with lively, bouncing happiness. Whether they want to sit and listen, laugh and enjoy, or get out on the dance floor and swing, it all boils down to happiness is soaking up that sound.

For an even's relaxation, try listening to the new sound of Tony Austin & Co., and find out that like that first handful of salted peanuts. One taste just won't be enough.

Utility Export Plan Delayed

California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency's Technical Advisory (TAC), voted last week to delay recommendations regarding underground utilities and Lake Tahoe export for at least a month.

The TAC decided to hold up recommendations on waste export until Placer and El Dorado Counties review a report by the California Department of Public Health on the subject.

It was noted that the latter figure was far from the 380,000 pounds per year per 255,000 people in a report presented by Engineering Science to the Lake Tahoe Area Council in 1962. That report triggered a move by the regional agency to get a garbage export project going by 1970.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot-Shots:

By BETTY LAYTON

It's a disaster area all right, especially when some homeowners have to pay for shoveling their roofs twice in as many months.

However, because of the renowned label, the homeowner can claim disaster exemption and it's deductible from his income tax – little consolation!

Straight from the horse's mouth: It's true that if Pyramid Lake were to receive all the outflow from Lake Tahoe, it is still a doomed lake and would still dry up! Maybe someone could consider moving it to the west side of Reno to take care of the proposed dam threat on the Truckee River.

* * *

The big "S" and now the suggested space needle for Nevada South Shore boggles the mind into a topsy-turvy world! It would necessitate the chamber changing the geography description of Lake Tahoe from "the most majestic Alpine picture the world affords" to "There's just too much . . . If you spread it around a little, it's easier to take, even at Tahoe," John Williams, city manager of South Lake Tahoe, stated that the proposal points out one of the reasons for the regional agency to be nationally accepted soon.

The North Shore C of C is working in the direction of wilderness area for the Five-Lakes (Granite Chief area) to preserve the beauty – not exploit it. The creeping spread of humanity. Pretty soon you'll have to get atop Mt. Whitney to commune with nature and we hear the hikers are frequenting the summit more every summer. Round table discussions on the USFS Granite Chief Study will be held at one of the chamber meetings soon.

We urge all chamber members to take a minute out to complete and return the blue legislative questionnaire recently mailed to them. The answers will be tallied and mailed to the state chamber and to our legislators who are interested in knowing the opinions of their constituents.

Fly-In Planning Begins

Initial planning for the Sixth Annual Fly–In June 14 and 15 at Truckee–Tahoe Airport began last week when members of the Hi flyers met at the airport.

The show draws thousands of visitors who look forward to the early summer event. Included will be demonstrations, aerobatics and displays as well as food and fun. Area service clubs and chambers of commerce as well as local businesses participate.

Secretary Dr. J. A. Benson, said letters will go out this week listing the show in aero–interest magazines. Some performers have already been contacted and more will be asked to participate.

Club President Marlin McWhorter said there will be display and food and beverage booths and a barbecue. It is hoped the Lions Club will again put on its unequaled "pancake breakfast."

Demonstrations will include among other things, student and private pilot spot landings, flour bombing and borate bombing, sailplane aerobateics, and gliding.

Members also hope to have helicopters participate and arrangements may be made to have helicopter rides available for those attending.

Parachutists, an aerobatic team and individual aerobatic participants will be on the program which will bring a wide variety of aircraft in to the show.

McWhorter urged that anyone who has helped plan previous shows "please come out to the meetings and lend us a hand." Meetings of the Hy Flyers are held the second Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be held March 13, 7:30 p.m. at the Truckee–Tahoe Airport.

Youth Dies In Vietnam

United States Defense Department has revealed Marine Pfc. James D. Peschel, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horst T. Peschel of Sacramento and South Lake Tahoe, has been killed in Vietnam. He died of fragmentation wounds from a grenade, the department informed his parents.

Peschel was a brother of Gary G. Peschel, now of Boulder, who several years ago was employed as a printer at the office of the Sierra Sun in Truckee. His parents operated a restaurant at South Lake Tahoe.

He was a native of Sacramento and attended high school there and the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Colorado at Boulder. Peschel enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserves at Boulder in 1967 and was sent to Vietnam last October.

Besides his parents and brother, Gary, Peschel leaves two other brothers, Kenneth D. and Dale B., both of Sacramento and sisters, Mrs. Iris Akers of San Carlos, Mrs. Christina Friberg of San Manuel, Ariz., and Cynthia Peschel of Sacramento.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Sacramento.

Grant Delay In Sentencing

A delay was granted Friday in sentencing a Tahoe Vista couple on charges of manufacturing dangerous drugs, to allow San Francisco attorney Terrence Hallinan time to prepare representation.

Richard L. Landau, 27, and his wife, Gail, 22, appeared before Superior Court Judge Leland J. Propp in Auburn to learn their case would be heard Wednesday.

The couple pleaded guilty to the felony charges last month and were to be sentenced Friday, but Judge Propp postponed action after Hallinan said the Landaus should never have been allowed to plead guilty.

Hallinan failed to appear in court Friday.

Youth Held

Charles Anthony Sage, 23, Crystal Bay, was being held without bail in the Nevada County jail pending further investigation following his arrest in Truckee last week on a complaint charging possession of marijauna.

Sage's car, with six passengers, was stopped in Truckee by the California Highway Patrol for a defective signal light. Officers said two marijuana cigarettes were tossed from the vehicle when the CHP units red light began to flash.

The six passengers in the car were released after Asst. Dist. Att. Ronald McMillen said there was lack of evidence to hold them.

Fire Calls

North Lake Tahoe Fire Protection District responded to two calls Monday morning. There was no damage on either call.

The first call was from the Lake Tahoe Hotel when its automatic fire detecting system was activated. The activation was caused by water leaking into one of the units.

The second call was in response to a natural gas leak smelled and hear by the occupants of a house at Kelly Drive and Winding Way at Incline. Southwest Gas also responded to the call, shut off the gas and will repair the damage.

Snow Pack In Nevada 'Much Above Average'

RENO – "Mountain snow pack is much above average throughout Nevada, and measurements on many snow courses in the Sierra are higher than at any previous date," stated Charles W. Cleary Jr., Nevada conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

"This information comes as no surprise to most Nevadans as they are living through a winter that will enter the record books with few equals, if any," he said.

Cleary noted that this winter has insured Nevada an excellent water supply for 1969. The April through July streamflow is predicted to rank among the highest of record for streams originating on the east slope of the Sierra Nevada range.

Nevada Soil Conservation Service's March 1 snow surveys indicate that Nevada's snow pack ranges from a phenomenal 643 per cent of average in the Spring Mountains, above Las Vegas, to a much–above–average 140 per cent in the Ruby Mountains near Elko.

Sierra Nevada snow pack varies from 230 per cent in the north to 250 per cent in the south. Many individual snow courses, however, are above 300 per cent of normal for this date.

Cleary noted that numerous snow courses in the Sierra Nevada, Spring Mountains, and the Lower Humboldt River area have more snow than has ever before been recorded.

"This is especially noteworthy," he said, "in that April 1 is considered to be the date of maximum snow buildup, and many courses have already broken the all–time record set in April, 1952."

Watershed soils are well primed throughout most of Nevada. Valley and lower–elevation soils are also wet and, in some cases, covered with a blanket of snow. This condition indicates that streams will begin to flow earlier than normal this year.

Streamflow forecasts issued by the SCS indicate that the April through July flows will be much above normal for the entire state. Small streams fed by low–elevation snow will have abundant early flows this season.

Generally, streamflow is expected to start early with the melt of the low–elevation snow and then continue with higher–than–normal flows into early August.

Nevada's major reservoirs contain 120 per cent of average carryover storage for this date. Many reservoirs are being drawn down to create a cushion for the expected high summer runoff.

In summing up, Cleary said that this winter has been extremely wet, and it is already one of the biggest snow years on record. This situation poses a threat of spring high water. Weather conditions from now through June will be a major factor in determining the extent of high rate of runoff this season.

A promotion and an overseas assignment for two area servicemen have been reported by the United States Army.

Ruben M. Esparza Jr., 21, was promoted to specialist four during a February ceremony near Schweinfurt, Germany, where he is a supply specialist in the 3rd Infantry Division.

Esparza is the son of Ruben M. Esparza of Norden

Pfc. William O. Crawford Jr., 23, whose parents live in Truckee, has been assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) near Phuoc Vinh, Vietnam, as a military policeman.

Mt. Rose Ski Slopes Good

Mt. Rose ski area, between Reno and Lake Tahoe, is operating daily and has a snowpack of approximately 10 feet at the base of 25 feet at the top.

All slopes have packed powder, the parking lot is cleared and the skiing is very good, according to area spokesman. The heavy snow pack will guarantee excellent skiing through late spring.

"Broken Leg Party", promoted by Old Crow, was held at the Mt. Rose ski area, with exhibition skiing by 1960 Olympic Gold Medal winner Roger Staub.

Cedar Beach Concession Plans Sought

INCLINE VILLAGE– Proposals for operation of the food concession at Burnt Cedar Beach, are now being sought by the Incline Village General Improvement District, it has been announced by W.W. Wally White, manager.

The district in announcing its plans for the coming year, said the plan to open the beach May 30 and close Sept. 8, 1969.

The district also is looking for gatekeepers to handle admittance of beach crowds, which last year totaled 350,000 user days.

Plans were also disclosed that swimming lessons will be offered on a daily basis, with 10 sessions of two weeks each.

A manager for the beach operation is also being sought by the district.

White said the entrance to the area will be improved and the parking area expanded.

School Trustee Write-In Candidates Must File

Write-in candidates for the position of school trustee are required to file an announcement of candidacy by April 10, Placer County Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Lonergan reminded voters.

Under Section 18602 of the Election Code, passed at the last session of the legislature, such filing must be made in person at Placer County Superintendent of Schools' office, 1230 High St., Auburn.

The governing board election is set for April 15.

New legislation eliminates the counting of obviously fictitious names such as "Mickey Mouse," "Superman," and the like, Lonergan said.

Election boards will count votes only for those candidates who have filed by the April 10 deadline.

Truckee District Views Work In Conservation

For 35 years Conservation Week has been observed annully in California from March 7 to 14.

This nation first recognized the need and necessity of a policy for securing the conservation of our natural resources under President Theodore Roosevelt's administration. President John F. Kennedy in a conservation message to Congress in 1962 reminded us our resources are not inexhaustible nor do thy automatically replenish themselves.

Edward P. Cliff, chief of the forest service, has said a country can be only as great, only as successful, as her natural resources will allow and history bears out the truth of this statement.

The importance of conservation cannot be overestimated. Human life is impossible without natural resources and their wise use. Our natural environment is made up of the following things necessary for human life: soil, water, rocks, and minerals, plants, animals, air and sunlight. The first six are the great classes of resources which require wise use.

Our forests, of course, are plantlife and are a renewable resource. By proper management we can use our forests and still always have them. When a natural resource like coal, or oil is used up, it is gone forever.

We must practice conservation of our forests not only for the wood they supply, but for all the other benefits we get from the forests. Besides wood, the forests provide water, wildlife, forage, soil stabilization, recreation and special forest products such as Christmas trees, fence posts, and others.

Here on the Truckee District of the Tahoe National Forest we can see many examples of conservation. Among these are the timber supplied to the local sawmill, Boca, Prosser and Stampede Dams, used to store water and prevent floods, Prosser, Silver Creek, Kaspian and William Kent Campgrounds for recreation.

Another example is the rehabilitation of the disasterous Donner Ridge fire in 1960, which destroyed timber, Christmas trees, forage and denuded the slopes.

Soon after this fire the burned timber was logged before it rotted and fell prey to insects and erosion control ditches were constructed to stabilize the soil and prevent it from washing away. The land was then cleared of dead trees and brush and the area planted with young trees.

Each fall more land is cleared and each spring more trees are planted. This practice will continue until a new forest is established – another example of good conservation.

Pacific Telephone Reports Annual Earnings For 1968

Pacific Telephone has announced that its 1968 earnings were $1.33 per common share, compared to $1.26 per share in 1967 when earnings fell to a 10-year low.

The totals included in the company's annual report, released this week. It outlines PT&T's four goals – service, profits, employe relations and community service.

A special two-page report on "Progress Through Unity" touches on Bell System cooperation with the Jamesburg Earth Station in the Carmel Valley.

In his annual report message, E. Hornsby Wasson, PT&T chairman of the board, said the company was "able to turn the corner – ever so slightly."

He referred to the "failure to obtain adequate rate relief from the California Public Utilities Commission" in its decision to grant only $50.2 million of the requested $181.4 million in rate increases. "Every dollar of this was necessary," he said.

Wasson said the company "again . . . will be asking the men and women of Pacific Telephone to operate under the tightest possible expense restrictions consistent with good service."

The 1968 Annual Report has been distributed to the company's 57,669 shareholders. The next annual meeting will be held March 28 in San Francisco.

Trem Talk

By BETTY SHIVELY

Last week certainly made up for any time we lost by our long weekend. No wonder the week of March 3 is already history.

* * *

The week started with the hope of stiffling the Lincoln Zebras in basketball. The school day was to be shortened to 2:30 . . . but we weren't in our glory long – the game was canceled (famous words by this time.) So Monday was just another one of those days.

* * *

At Tuesday's Student Council meeting the date was set for the Spring Carnival. It will be April 12. Be sure to mark this big event on all calendars! What is more fun than a good old-fashioned carnival? Each school club and organization will have a booth set up in the gym. There will be booths for amateur balloon poppers to those brilliant molecule counters. Don't miss this fun time for the whole area.

* * *

Our Wolverines took a trip to Del Oro March 4, hoping to stifle the Eagles, too. They are no substitute for the Lincoln Zebras, though. The Wolverine Varsity lead up to the fourth quarter when the Eagles flew ahead to victory.

This game had sentimental feelings for some and relief for others, as it was the last basketball game of the season. We must commend the team for a fine performance during the season. Also a big thanks to the Varsity cheerleaders – Sally Monroe, head cheerleader; Debbie Wurst, Darlene Feathers, and Micki Barker; the junior varsity cheerleaders – Martha Pope, head, Sue Terry and Joyce Smart; and to songleaders, Sandy Martin, head, Debbie Rosamond, Sandy Davis, Chris Keehn, and Lorna Leininger. They've all done a great job in promoting "tremendous spirit."

* * *

March 5 CSF met and elected the following officers: President, Sue Hawkins; president; Larry Doyle; vice-president; Shirleen Jay; secretary; Lynn Duttweiler; treasurer and Carol Linstrom, Student Council representative.

* * *

Thursday was another busy day at TNT, beginning with a general studentbody meeting in the gym. Jeff Jellin, president, conducted the discussion on items including clarification of the accreditation program now underway. Mr. Stein stressed the importance of all students helping. Tom Rogers reported on plans for a new scoreboard on the football field. This is a must! Our chief income for the scoreboard will be chiefly – and hopefully – from contributions, donations and selling advertising. Roger Anderson, newspaper editor, asked for contributions for the new Wolverine Whisper.

* * *

Cheerleaders, songleaders and Mrs. Wilson gave the basketball teams a surprise party at noontime. The girls baked and appropriately decorated cakes for the fellows.

* * *

Thursday's activities didn't conclude at 3:29. Many girls remained after school for GAA tumbling. The class competition is set for the end of March. The majority of students staying after school were waiting for the bus to take them to Reno. Two buses were filled with students who went to see the movie "Romeo and Juliet." Darlene Feathers liked the movie so much, she couldn't bring herself to leave at the end of the film!

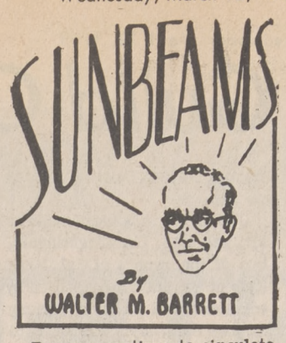
* * *

The Senior Ball Committee was hustling around Friday. Greg Gunkel, senior class vice president, did a great job organizing the dance even after four postponments. The gym was attractively decorated with red and pink roses and greenery. Micki Barker, Gail Burghart, Kathy Critchley, Jan Price, Lindsay Brett, and Sue Hawkins are credited with "growing" the roses.

Mr. and Miss TNT were crowned at the dance Saturday night. Congratulations Gregg Gunkel and Patty Free!

* * *

How about our TNT Ski Team! Tahoe-Truckee fared well by defeating five other high school teams Saturday in a combined boys' and girls' giant slalom race at Homewood Ski Area. The races were a California-Nevada Interscholastic Ski Federation event. D. Everson won the girls' event for TNT with Judy Price second, Gail Burghart third. Leon Luchessi is coach for our skiers, and let's give a big cheer at the next assembly for a job well done.



Rumors continue to circulate on repeated sheets of sleet that an abominable snowman is roaming the high Sierra, not only on a regular routine, but has been seeding passing clouds over a rather long period of time.

We recall that some years ago a notice of such a questionable practice was advertised, as required, in a newspaper remote from the ultimate scene of action.

We bow to the natural elements, which are severe enough in this region, but the thousands of persons and their property affected by such a man-made storm demands the forthright and lucid explanation. If the snow chemical content that the alleged scientists are so diligently seeking has to be sifted from the heavily laden mountains, would you believe our personal preference for those we would most like to find on the bottom of the heap, come spring and the expected deluge?

The small benefit, if any, which the eggheads hope to discover from their experiments will never offset the damage and costs piling up from the excessive storms.

Of course we have no immediate way of proving that seeding is being done or that it is creating the near record of snowfall, but the rumors continue and we believe them.

Now, we are unofficially informed, another anti-nature program is being planned. This one, we are told, would provide a fog shelter over the snow on the ground which would limit the runoff to what may be desired, keeping the sun from its alloted task. All this fooling with nature may provide information to scientists, but in our humble opinion, it is going to fail to benefit humanity and should be stopped now.

Risky Fishing Season Near

Fishermen may enjoy a unique but highly risky sport when the trout season opens on Donner Lake March 29.

Under paragraph 21, Article 6 in the 1969 California Fish and Game Code, it reads, "Fish may be taken beneath the ice during the open season for that water." This regulation supersedes Section 5506 of the code and became effective Jan. 1.

The fishing season opens March 29 at Donner, but even a casual observer will note that several feet of snow covers a blanket of highly uncertain ice over the lake.

Fishermen, if there are those anxious enough to try their luck, need not await melting of the snow and ice to dip the bait, but should be warned that the ice may be paper-thin is some places which might easily lead to a tragedy.

Donner will be the only water open to fishing so early in the year, the regular season being set for May 3.

Marie Hart

News was received recently of the death last August 25 in Reno of Marie Clark Hart at the age of 77. She had been a resident for the past 40 years of Calneva, Tahoe Vista and Reno.

She is survived by her son, Art Sowle, and three grandchildren, Lenore, Larry and Joy, all of Tahoe Vista and Reno.

Youth Sentenced

A three-month jail sentence has been handed down to Darrell Lynn Spratford, 18, Tahoe City, by Superior Judge Leland J. Propp.

Spratford will also be on probation for three years in connection with the October burglary of the Design Madness shop at Squaw Valley.

Members of the Nevada Opera Guild have opened an office in Reno from which to conduct a membership drive for the forthcoming Nevada Opera Company season.

The office is being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nightingale, two of the owners of Cal Neva Club at Crystal Bay. Staffed by volunteers, it is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m.

The guild sponsors the Nevada Opera Company. Operas to be presented this year under the direction of Ted Puffer are "Madame Butterfly" and "Die Fledermaus." Puffer, associate professor at the University of Nevada, is assisted in translating the operas into English by his wife, Deena.

Guild President Jim Sales said last year's presentations, "Barber of Seville" and "Rigoletto" were well received.

A tea last week at the home of Mrs. Hugh Long in Reno opened the membership drive. Receiving guests were the membership chairman, Bob Sears and Mrs. Newton Crumley, Mrs. Richard Lowden, Mrs. William P. Lear. Leon Manning is membership cochairman.

REPAIR WORK – Trees felled by recent storms cause problems for Pacific Telephone repair crews when downed trees and limbs land on telephone cables in remote areas. A crew made up of Ray Beewer, left, Joe Pilley, center, and Bill Emory of the Tahoe City office snowshoed in from State Route 89 to repair the damage shown in the above photograph. Jack Domergue, Pacific Telephone manager, said service usually is restored rapidly in situations such as this.

Boating Education Pays Says Coast Guard Chief

SAN FRANCISCO – The 92 California boating accident deaths in 1968 were a tragic loss of life – a loss that can be reduced if California boaters take advantage of the free courses in small boat handling and safety offered by the Coast Guard Auxiliary, said a Coast Guard boating safety officer here today.

Lieutenant Commander E. E. Chambers, chief of the Twelfth Coast Guard District's boating safety branch, was commenting on the 1968 boating accident statistics recently released by the California Department of Harbors and Watercraft.

Mr. Chambers noted that the total number of accidents increased from 572 in 1967 to 580 last year. Although that increase is small, especially when compared to the increase in the size of the boating population, the 92 fatalities were a grim reminder that much could be done to improve boating safety.

Information about the Coast Guard Auxiliary's small boat handling and safety classes can be obtained from the Director of Auxiliary, Twelfth Coast Guard District, 630 Sansome St., San Francisco, Calif. 94126. That office can also be reached at telephone number 415–556–5310.

Populations Problems To Be Discussed

In recent years thoughtful people in all countries have been concerned about the problem of overpopulation, and what the implications of a crowded world have for food, resources, social interaction, political and ecological aspects of the world to come.

A weekend workshop at American River College, Room 160, on Friday and Saturday, March 14–15, will consider these problems. "Overpopulation: A Social Conservation Crisis" will be conducted by Professor Walter E. Howard, UCD, and a number of discussion leaders from Stanford University. It will be of particular interest to high school and college teachers, as well as the general public.

Fee for the workshop, which carries 1 quarter unit of credit, is $20.

For Further information, call University Extension, Davis, 916–752–0880.

Highway 50 Bid Awarded

A $1,586,797 contract for the construction of a new four–lane section of U. S. Highway 50 connecting Spooner Summit and Glenbrook has been awarded by the Department of Highways to Robert L. Helms Construction Co.

One of the largest single contracts to be awarded this year, completion will culminate four years of effort by the department in four–laning U. S. 50 from Stateline to Spooner's, and will connect Carson City and Tahoe with four lanes for the first time.

Included in the contract for 2.7 miles of new highway will be complete modification of the intersection of Highway 50 and State Route 28 at the summit to eliminate a condition found to be hazardous to drivers.

Other bids considered by Deputy Highway Engineer Ralph Ottini were: Hughes & Ladd, Inc., Redding Calif., $1,696,884.30; A. Teichert Inc., Sparks, $1,787,628.80; and Rogers Construction Co., Portland, Ore., $1,908,651.50. The department engineers' estimate was for $1,662,472.50.

William Wilke will be resident engineer for the project.

This Airline Is Enjoying Snow Jobs

ST. PAUL, MINN. – There's at least one airline that doesn't mind getting a snow job.

Mrs. Frank Zeug of West St. Paul wrote to a local newspaper explaining that she had sent a copy of the paper to her daughter, Mrs. William T. Roberts, in Phoenix.

One of the grandchildren, eight-year-old Kathleen Roberts, was fascinated by a picture in the paper showing the snow in Minnesota.

She wrote to her grandmother and asked, "Can you send us a big box of clean snow and some snowballs?"

Mrs. Zeug wrote to the paper asking how this could be done. The newspaper's "Action Line" column told her that Western Air Lines "advises you to pack the snowballs in dry ice inside a styrofoam container, like a styrofoam ice bucket.

"They have same-day service to Phoenix and the snow should get there in good condition. You can take your package to Western's freight terminal at Minneapolis – St. Paul International Airport."

The newspaper added wryly: "As far as we're concerned, you can send them all of it."

Mrs. Zeug is giving the matter some thought and Western's air cargo people are still waiting for their snow job.

Evans Ends Career At Pacific Gas

SAN FRANCISCO – Donald W. Evans, customer services supervisor for Pacific Gas and Electric Company at Grass Valley for the past 16 years, ended a PG&E career spanning 46 years March 1.

Leonard J. Mathews has been named to succeed Evans, it was announced by W. D. Laughlin, the company's drum division manager. Mathews is a native of Napa and has served in PG&E's general construction department and customer services department. His last assignment was in Vallejo.

He and his wife Julianne and four sons have moved to 111 Nursery St. in Nevada City.

Evans joined PG&E as a material and supply clerk in the company's accounting department in Auburn on May 28, 1923.

He has been associated with the company's Drum Division during his entire employment, serving in Auburn and Grass Valley. He is a native of Nevada City and received his education there.

An ardent fisherman, Evans has been a PG&E stream scout since being assigned to the Grass Valley office in 1953. The Stream Scouts are a devoted group of company employes who make regular on-the-spot checks of mountain streams, lakes and rivers in PG&E territory for reports published weekly as a public service to sportsmen.

Evans has been an active member of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce and served as a director in 1956 and 1957. His other activities have included the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and his church.

He and his wife Irma plan to travel following his retirement.

'Diamondfield' Jack Chronicles Old West

RENO – The absorbing tale of a garrulous gunman who became the center of a bizarre legal drama in early-day Idaho is the latest production of the University of Nevada Press.

In 'Diamondfield Jack,' author David H. Grover carefully disentangles history from myth but tells the story in a way that would do credit to any fiction writer.

A swaggering young cowboy with a big mouth, Diamondfield Jack Davis in the summer of 1895 hired on as a gunman for powerful cattle interests in southern Idaho. His job was to terrorize encroaching sheepmen, a task at which he was exceptionally adept. His boss was John Sparks, later to become governor of Nevada.

Diamondfield Jack's troubles started with an isolated range incident in which two sheepmen were found shot to death in their Cassia county camp.

The incident sparked what became over the next seven years a bitter court fight between powerful and wealthy livestock interests a political controversy that divided public opinion throughout Idaho, and even at times a quasi-religious issue which fanned the dying embers of anti-Mormonism.

With all of Diamondfield Jack's bragging about his gun prowess — 'cutting it in smoke" as he called it — it didn't take lawmen long to conclude Jack was the killer of the sheepmen.

And it took a jury only three hours, after a 10-day trial, to decide Diamondfield Jack was guilty of first degree murder. All of the jurors were from the sheepmens' side of the range boundary between cattlemen and sheepmen. William E. Borah, later to become U.S senator from Idaho, was a special prosecutor.

Cattlemen hired James Hawley, who became an Idaho legend as a criminal lawyer, to head the defense.

Before sentencing, Diamondfield Jack delivered a hour-long tirade about the lack of evidence against him and the prejudice in the community of Albion where the trial was held, but this didn't sway the court.

The judge sentenced Jack to be hanged on June 4, 1897.

Diamondfield lived in the shadow of the gallows for the next four years even though two other Sparks employes had meanwhile confessed killing the sheepmen and had been acquitted on the grounds of self-defense.

It wasn't until the summer of 1901 that the Idaho Board of Pardons concluded Diamondfield Jack wouldn't have killed the sheepmen. So in what author Grover calls a "classic in pseudologic' – the Board commuted his death sentence to life in prison.

It was the end of 1902 before the Board finally pardoned Davis, setting him free to begin an episode just as flamboyant as the one that had gone before.

Davis shortly wound up in the Tonopah-Goldfield mining boom and within a few years became immensely wealthy, with close personal associations with the late George Wingfield, who later became Nevada's political kingmaker, and George Nixon and Tasker L. Oddie, both of whom became U.S. senators from Nevada.

Davis also rebuilt his reputation as a gunman in a number of clashes with members of the early mining union.

Davis exhausted his wealth in later years, winding up in Las Vegas as a gambling house shill. It was there in 1949 that he came to an unlikely death by stepping in front of a taxi cab.

Author Grover concludes his book with the observation:

'If it has been difficult to separate fact from fiction, the blame must go to Diamondfield Jack himself, a man who never worried a great deal about the distinction between the two."

Dr. Grover is a professor of speech and did the research for his book under grants from Oregon State University and Colorado State University. He has taught at both institutions, as well as at the University of Wyoming.

He presently is at the University of Utah.

Recruiting On At CHP

TRUCKEE – The typical cadet at the California Highway Patrol Academy is a young man with a young family, a man who has the vigor and intelligence of youth coupled with the responsibility and judgement of maturity.

Furthermore, he is a young man embarking upon a challenging career of public service.

"If that description fits you and if you are looking for an action job with the future, the California Highway Patrol invites you to apply for the examination for state traffic officer to be given on May 3," Lt. D. H. Ledford of the Truckee Area said today.

"A man who picks the California Highway Patrol has selected a career with good starting pay and a good future. He obtains the security he wants for his family and at the same time enjoys a job that doesn't tie him to a desk all day long," Lt. Kramer said.

An applicant must be between the ages of 20 and 31 inclusive, between five feet nine and six feet six in height, have a high school diploma or the equivalent, be in good health, and reside in California.

Final filing date for the examination is April 11.

Applications may be obtained from any office of the Highway Patrol, Department of Motor Vehicles, California State Employment Service or State Personnel Board.

Basque Study Course Planned

RENO – Study in the homeland of many Nevada settlers will be made possible by the University of Nevada this summer.

Through its Basque Studies Program, the University will offer a summer school program to be held in Ustaritz, the French Basque country, June 12-Aug. 7.

Interested students must apply by March 15. Further information may be obtained by writing the Basque Studies Program, University of Nevada, Reno.

Battle Looming Over Bug Station Phase-Out

An inspection station is like a vaccination. It is near impossible to tell how effective they are, according to Fritz Perry, senior inspector at the South Tahoe Agricultural Inspection Station.

"We figure we are about 85 per cent effective in keeping pests and plant diseases from entering the state," Perry said.

Effectiveness, efficiency and inconvenience are central issues causing Gov. Ronald Reagan to request phase-out of 18 border stations.

Opponents to Reagan's plan claim a better system has not been worked out and it would be foolhardy to close the stations.

"People assume we are looking for bugs. It is not bugs as much as larvae which carry plant destroying pests. We also search for plant diseases and to some extent, we check the quality of goods transported by commercial carriers are what they say they are," Perry explained.

The most common carriers, Perry, said, are individuals who unknowingly bring in harmful pests and diseases in on apples. peaches and other fruits.

Commercial carriers rarely bring in pests because they are familar with the rules, Perry noted.

"It has been claimed that the border stations are set up to prevent out-of-state produce from entering. This is untrue, because if a load of goods has been cleaned, or other steps have been taken to prevent pests and diseases from entering, the loads will be allowed in," Perry asserted.

One official in Sacramento, speaking on the inconvenience caused by the stations, said, "The discontent of Californians at being stopped at the border will not rival the discontent of having a favorite removed from the backyard because a new peat found its way into California."

Richard E. Lyng, former state director of agriculture, announced the phasing out program last fall. At that time he claimed program was not designed as an economy move.

When Perry was asked why he thought the inspection stations were being considered for extincton, he refused comment.

California Department of Agriculture spokesmen say the the border stations have done a good job so far, but because of the expected increase of traffic in the next few years, the stations have outlived their usefulness.

A proposal called "The Plan," has been put forth by the department which would provide for internal inspection within the state for invading pests and, once a foreign pest was found heavy use of pesticides would be used to eradicate it.

"The Plan" has been likened to removing screens from windows and deciding to fight flies with a fly swatter.

An appointed director for the State Board of Agriculuture, has said, "It would be humanly impossible to retain the present level of pest control without the stations."

A battle looms in the future in the state chambers, as legislators, the governor and agricultural officials line up on either side of the issue.

Income Tax Audits Show Records Needed

SAN FRANCISCO – Recent audits of tax returns by the Internal Revenue Service have resulted in many taxpayers having to come up with extra cash because they couldn't prove that their travel and entertaining expenses were necessary and ordinary business expenses.

Joseph M. Cullen, district director of Internal Revenue for Northern California stated that in order for a taxpayer to have his travel and entertainment deduction allowod, he must keep a record of these expenses.

The record, in the form of a diary or other record must show: The date and place of the event, who traveled or was entertained, the business relationship or reason for the expense and the amount of the expense.

When asked if this request placed an excessive burden on the taxpayer, Cullen stated that keeping adequate records was an important part of every business and every businessman should be accustomed to keeping this type of record.

Weather Is Factor In Joblessness

CARSON CITY – Unusually severe winter weather has caused a marked rise in Nevada's unemployment rate, says Jerry Dondero, executive director of the Nevada Employment Security Department.

Dondero says near-record snowfall which inhibited motor travel throughout much of northern Nevada was largely responsible for a 21 per cent rise in unemployment in the tourist-oriented state during January as compared to December.

However, preliminary estimates by the state agency's manpower information and research section indicate the unemployment rate of 5.6 per cent for January is still lower than at the same time one year ago.

Nevada's work force dipped slightly in January to 211,500 and total employment fell to 199,500; however, these figures represent an improvement over January, 1968, of 5.8 per cent and 7 per cent, respectively.

Non-agricultural employment in January also followed the trend by declining slightly from December but remaining 7 per cent above the previous year. This decline was affected by the termination of temporary Christmas help both in retail stores and post offices.

Construction employment was up 35 per cent from last year, although it also declined from December to January. A strong building program in Southern Nevada has helped to maintain construction employment in a customarily slow part of the year.

Although the mining industry showed a statistical employment gain of 52 per cent in 1969 over the previous year, this figure is greatly inflated because of the unemployment recorded during 1968 due to copper strikes.

Nevada Leads In Driver Education

CARSON CITY – Nevada's defensive driving program for all state employes will be completed March 20, far ahead of schedules set by the National Safety Council in compliance with the National Highway Safety Act of 1966.

By the end of 1968 Nevada led all states in the nation, having trained 28 per cent of the quota established for the year. Over 5,000 state employes have benefited from the eight-hour, on-the-job safety course. Those employes yet to receive the instruction are new employes who have joined the state since inception of the program last spring.

Highway Department Safety Director Joseph Moore and Training Director George Smith worked closely with George A. McElroy of the Highway Safety Division, Department of Motor Vehicles in scheduling and presenting the instruction. Basic financing was provided by the Nevada Independent Insurance Agents' Association.

Training centers were established in Reno, Las Vegas, Elko and Ely with instructors drawn from the state highway department, the licensing division of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Highway Patrol. A mobile training unit toured all other communities throughout the state.

Under terms of the federal safety act, each state must provide significant progress toward the 15 national standards outlined in legislation passed in 1966. Adult driver training in defensive driving is one of the dozen criteria stressed.

In the future, as new employes join state agencies, the training will be continued on an "as required" basis.

Bible Suggests Lake Recreation Area Study

RENO – Legislation is contemplated by U.S. Sen. Alan Bible, D–Nev., that would allow a feasibility study on creation of a National Lakeshore Recreation Area on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe.

Bible said he will introduce the legislation if Nevada's governor and legislature concur with the idea.

"It is apparent that the State – for all of its excellent intentions – may lack the resources required to create a recreation area of adequate dimensions for employment of the general public," Bible said.

Bible, chairman of the Senate Parks and Recreation subcommittee, outlined his proposal in an address to the annual meeting of the California–Nevada Section of the National Wildlife Society.

Bible emphasized the feasibility study by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation would not exclude the possibility that some type of state development program might be preferable to a National Lakeshore.

"But if the study clearly indicates the public interest would be best served by adding desirable portions of the Lake Tahoe area to the National Park System, then I believe we would be obligated to proceed accordingly," he said.

"The natural, undeveloped shoreline beauty of this majestic mountain lake grows smaller each day. And since time is a critical factor, I believe the public interest should take precedence over all other factors."

Bible said he has been concerned by the slow progress made in acquiring and developing land for its Lake Tahoe State Park, and added "the financial facts of life are becoming painfully clear."

The senator pledged a "full throttle effort" to secure early congressional ratification of the bi–state compact for water pollution control and land development in the Lake Tahoe Basin.

"But the compact, however important, promises to provide only part of the solution," he added. "No less important is the imperative need to secure sufficient land to guarantee a public recreation area to suitably accommodate the hundreds of thousands of annual visitors to the lake.

Waste Water Study Slated

The Lake Tahoe Area Council has been advised the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has approved a $25,001 demonstration project grant to determine the effects of the South Tahoe Public Utility District's waste water reclamation plant on Indian Creek Reservoir in Alpine County, which receives the reclaimed water.

The program will be an extension of a study now in progress relating to eutrophication of Lake Tahoe.

Posts Filled

CARSON CITY – Two appointments were announced this week by John Bawden, Nevada highway engineer.

Richard M. Black, resident engineer, has been named Assistant district engineer of District 2 in Sparks, and Bill Marsh who has been resident engineer on a number of projects in District 2, will fill the post of assistant construction engineer at headquarters in Carson City.

Black will assist M.J. Colletti, district engineer, with improvement and maintenance of the rapidly–expanding western Nevada highways system.

High Altitude Gardening

By Ronald H. Gustafson
Washoe County Extension Horticulturist

Each winter when new garden catalogues appear, home gardeners may ask themselves if it is worth the effort to plant a vegetable garden.

This can be answered very quickly with a "yes," especially if gardeners have one or two specific purposes and if these justify the end. I have a feeling that the average gardener's attitude towards vegetable gardening has changed considerable in the past 20 years, and maybe it is changing again.

Many of my readers may recall the "Victory Garden" days of World War II when raising vegetables was a necessity. There were many reasons then such as availability of vegetables due to demands by Armed Forces and tie–up or lack of transportation to ship vegetables.

With the end of this era vegotable production was largely orientated to large operations and possibly the biggest factor that changed the attitude is homes are being built on smaller and smaller lots, and the patio and outdoor facilities are directed toward recreation and beautification. New food processes and preservation has made it possible to get much better food from the store cheaper, so the financial return from the garden has been eliminated.

A vegetable garden means many things to different people. To me, it would mean an opportunity for relaxation with a hoe and shovel, an opportunity for the enjoyment of being outdoors, and the beauty that can be created by the different textures of foliage and arrangement of plants in rows, which certainly presents something attractive. Then there is the physical fitness aspects of gardening – not strenuous but some exercise.

Therefore, I feel there is justification for a limited vegetable garden today. I would, however, advise you limit the garden to those plants that produce edible products over a long period of time or vegetables of such flavor and quality that they cannot be matched commercially.

An excellent example is the tomato. It is the most popular of all vegetable plants in the area. Its popularity is easily understood, as what other plant produces so much in so small a space for so little care. If you have ever picked a sun–ripened tomato, sprinkled it with salt and pepper after washing it tenderly, and then eaten it with the warmth of the sun still in it, I am sure you will agree it is "King" of the garden.

Other vegetables make real sense to the average gardener. You should not, of course, take up room for vegetables that you do not like to eat or that takes a long time to produce. My suggestion would be for such garden vegetables as salad crops that can be picked over a longer period of time. Highly rated here are radish, leaf lettuce, and cucumbers.

I can see real justification for growing Kentucy Wonder Pole beans. These plants can be picked repeatedly. I think highly of summer squash. This plant is extremely productive and will continue to yield superb quality eating for months. No one will deny the novelty of growing watermelons, especially the 75 day icebox types, which have a reasonable chance of maturing in Reno area.

Cabbage plants are not a money saving project. Trying to keep the bugs out of the heads is quite a chore, and often expensive.

Few people like to pick garden peas, then shell and cook them, even though a product of equal quality in frozen condition is available.

If you have the space, a packet of carrots will yield excellent returns. A single packet of seeds will satisfy the table needs of the average family for several months and will be a pleasant snack well into winter, since some root crops can remain in the ground for some time and be harvested over a longer season.

While I make no attempt to over–sell gardening with vegetables, I think we should consider more use of vegetables in our planting.

Available at my office is a publication on "Vegetables for Washoe County." This lists vegetables recommended for our area and is available free of charge.

Lake Elevation

Lake Tahoe elevation on Friday was 6,228.05, according to the Sierra Pacific Power Co.

The report also gives the snow depth at the lake at 86 inches and the flow into the Truckee River at 1,606 cubic feet per second.

In a measurement taken on the same date in 1968, the lake elevation was 6,228.10 with a release of 100 cfs and a 22 inch snow depth.

Incline School Future Looks 'Groovy'

INCLINE VILLAGE – Incline High School has reached its first semester birthday and the future looks "groovy" as the 204 students would say.

The $2-million modern facility, built into a pine-covered hillside, opened its doors Sept. 3 to grades seven through 12. This date marked the end of a daily 66-mile round trip bus ride to Reno for Incline's high school students.

Constructed on a 22-acre site the school was built with the future enrollment of 1,500 students in mind. Space for a cafeteria, more classrooms and an enclosed student courtyard is available.

Physically, Incline High School has the latest enducational equipment, including industrial arts and shop areas, a spacious gymnasium with a stage and 22-foot-high electric doors which provide two regulation basketball courts, home economics rooms with facilities to delight the homemaker-to-be, a fully equipped typing room, a modern science lab, and much more for students to get the most from their high school education.

Led by the capable and relaxed guidance of Principal Carl Shaff, the 11 teachers and 204 students participate in a modified modular scheduling program designed to obtain more response from both the teachers and the students.

English teacher Jack Stephens, a former Wooster High School instructor, explained this type of scheduling creates longer class periods and does away with the traditional program of attending the same classes each day.

"The students like the longer periods," Stephens said. "We, as teachers, have the opportunity to make more meaningful assignments because the students have the additional time to prepare for their next class. There is definitely more responsibility placed on the student with this type of schooling.'

Stephens is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of Incline High School, leading the students in many academic and extra – curricular activities.

"Being in on the beginning of this adventure is a great experience. I feel what we make of it (the high school) is our responsibility," he said.

'Our library will meet accreditation standards next year. We now have 2,020 volumes and receive new shipments every week. The library is staffed by students and is kept open as long as possible during the day for maximum use.'

Stephens also oversees the publication of a weekly newspaper, "Highland Happenings;" the yearbook, Targe; and a literary annual to be published at the end of the school year containing creative contributions from the students.

He explained the school's motif is Scottish with the Highlander as its mascot and the Scottish ward Targe, meaning shield, for the yearbook title.

On the academic side, students can select from over 40 courses. In addition to the basic subjects, there are classes in Creative Writing, Library Science, Photography, Boys' Foods, Limnology and Matter-Energy.

Social activities revolve around the various clubs and sports events.

"We are taking advantage of the facilities here in our community,' ' Stephens explained. 'We can offer tennis at the Tahoe Racquet Club, bowling at Bowl Incline and skiing at Ski Incline. The longer class periods created by the modular scheduling allows sufficient time for these activities."

Sports, as at any other high school, receive their share of attention from Incline High School students and faculty.

Surrounding the physical plant are a football field encircled by a full sized track, a regulation baseball diamond and sufficient practice sports areas to handle the projected student growth.

School support for the initial season of the Incline Highlanders football team was excellent, according to Stephens. The team finished with two wins and four losses, under the coaching of O'Neill Sanders.

The baseball team, coached by John Prida, launched its first season with a 16 game schedule and participation in the Optimist Tourney held at Truckee.

Incline High School opened its doors in September and is on its way to making a place for itself in Nevada's secondary educational system. The years ahead, do indeed, look groovy.

PROUD NIGHT – It was a proud night last week for Optimists and Optimist–sponsored Boy Scout Troop 266 when Steve Evans, 15, was awarded Eagle Scout honors at a Court of Honor after a dinner held at Sunnyside Lodge. Some 100 members of both groups and their families attended. Steve, who is the first in Troop 266 to achieve Scouting's highest honor, is a sophomore student at Tahoe–Truckee High School. Shown pinning the badge is Steve's father, Jim Hutchinson. Also shown, are, from left, Charles Fisk of Homewood, assistant scoutmaster; Vaughn Williams of Homewood who took over as new scoutmaster last week; William Thomasberg of Tahoe City, chairman for the event, and Tom Pope, outgoing scoutmaster. Pope relinquished duties to become an assistant scoutmaster because of press of business.

Youth Becomes Eagle Scout

Steve Evans of Tahoe City was awarded Eagle Scout honors at a ceremony held Monday evening at Sunnyside Lodge.

Steve, a sophomore honor student at Tahoe Truckee High School, has been active in School and scouting affairs and has received scoutmaster's bronze and gold awards for excellence, has served as assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, senior leader and is now serving as junior assistant scoutmaster of Troop 266.

The dinner meeting and Eagle Scout Court of Honor were hosted by Tahoe City Optimists with Don Wilson and Bill Thomasberg speaking for the Optimists.

Presentation of awards was made by Tom Pope, outgoing scoutmaster, Vaughn Williams, incoming scoutmaster, and Chuck Fisk, assistant scoutmaster.

Other Court of Honor awards and those receiving them were Mike McIntyre and Tim Tilton, tenderfoot rank; Mike Felich, second class status; Dan Williams, Star award; and Ulf Grigoliet badges for swimming and lifesaving, Rod Wilson working and skiing badges; Alan Plumbridge, awarded rowing, canoeing and camping bades and Dave Thomasberg who was given badges for fishing and a 50–mile hike.

The Eagle Scout award is one of scouting's highest honors and only scout in 200 achieves this honor. In recent north Tahoe scouting history, only one other Boy Scout earned this honor. Darrell McDaniel of Troop 27 received his Eagle Scout honor several months ago.

LIONS CLUB CONTESTANTS – Student speakers competing in annual Truckee Lions Club competition Wednesday were, from left, Larry Doyle, Truckee; Theresa Black, Squaw Valley; Cindy Griggs, Tahoe City; and Diane Rose, Truckee. Diane Rose was the winner for second straight year. All four speakers are students at Tahoe Truckee High School and were coached by Mrs. Lucille Sauby. With them is Gordon Reddall, chairman of the Student Speaker Contest.

Speech Winner Doubles Honor

Diane Rose received the winner's trophy for the second straight year Wednesday night at the annual Truckee Lions Club student speaker contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zeph Rose of Truckee.

Diane was competing against Larry Doyle of Truckee, Theresa Black of Squaw Valley, and Cindy Griggs of Tahoe City, all four of them speaking on the theme, "The Hopes and Fears of Today's Youth."

More than 60 Lions Club members and their wives and guests gathered at My House Restaurant to hear the speakers compete for a trophy and the right to represent the Truckee Lions Club in the zone finals, and perhaps the chance to advance to district contests. Eventual prizes include a $1,500 scholarship.

The four speakers are students at Tahoe Truckee High School and were assisted by their coach, Mrs. Lucille Sauby.

Judging the speakers were Gerry Broce of Truckee, Mrs. Stephanie Anderson of Truckee, and Judi Birmingham of Tahoe City, this year's "Miss Sierra Snowflake."

Acting contest chairman was Gordon Reddall, filling in for Zeph Rose who is vacationing in the Bahamas, and the timers were Joseph Aguera and Henry Schwarz.

Nine Suspects Hear Charges

Two Grass Valley youths are being held on burglary charges and seven others, men and women, have been booked on suspected narcotics violations in the Truckee–Lake Tahoe area.

David Ray Rippley, 19, and James Allen Williams, 18, both of Grass Valley were held on suspicion of burglary of a laundromat in Kings Beach.

The youths were apprehended after deputies followed tracks from the laundromat to a residential area where they found the two men.

California Highway Patrol took seven men and women into custody this week for investigation of suspected narcotics violations.

Being held in custody are Charles Anthony Sage, 23, Crystal Bay, no bail; Robert Willis Bogart, 22, Tahoe City, no bail; Linda Ann Pelini, 20, Kings Beach, no bail; Joan Catherine Ratto, 19, Kings Beach, no bail; Judy Anne Morton, 19, Kings Beach, bail $3,750; Cheryl Marie Howard, 19, Kings Beach, bail $3,750, and Susan Lee Brennan, 20, Kings Beach, bail $3,750.

Decision Reversed On Park Sewering Plans

William Penn Mott Jr., director of California Department of Parks and Recreation, last week reversed a decision made four months ago by the California Resources Agency, regarding the sewering of D. L. Bliss and Emerald Bay State Parks.

Last October, Norman B. Livermore, resources agency director, said his agency desired that the south shore of Emerald Bay be sewered by the South Tahoe Public Utility District and the Bliss and Sugar Pine Point parks to the Tahoe City Public Utility District.

Mott's proposal would allow the Tahoe City Public Utility District to sewer only the Sugar Pine Point Park.

Mott's proposal came in a letter to William B. Layton, manager of the Tahoe City utility district, and to Russell Culp, manager of the South Lake Tahoe utility. Layton said the proposal is in direct conflict with the resources agency decision.

Layton said that since receiving the October state decision, the district has invested considerable sums in making preparations to serve Bliss State Park.

A trunk line is in the design stage and capacity for Bliss park is being designed into it and a treatment plant scheduled for construction this year.

Dam Proposal Encounters New Problem

RENO – Two new sources of disagreement popped up last week, regarding the proposed Verdi flood control dam on the Truckee River near the California border.

Washoe County commissioners have called on the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to continue to look for alternatives to the Verdi proposal.

The dam there would be the major structure in the suggested Reno–Sparks flood control project.

In Carson City, State Sens. James Slattery of Reno and Bill Farr of Sparks sponsored a Senate Joint Resolution calling on Army Engineers to reconsider the Verdi site.

SJR 18 said any recreational value of the proposed dam would not equal the residential and industrial value of land which would be flooded.

Nevada County Officials Visit Sierra Ski Resort

Nevada County officials and businessmen from the west side of the mountains got a first hand look at Sierra snow conditions and the operation of a major ski area Wednesday when a contingent of some 30 of them accepted the hospitality of Boreal Ridge for cocktails, lunch, and whatever form of athletic endeavor on the slopes they cared to engage in.

John Gallegos, manager of Nevada County Chamber of Commerce, squired the group, and affable Jay Price, manager of the Boreal Ridge facility, acted as host.

Local representatives at the affair, in addition to Boreal Ridge officials, included William Curran, Fifth District supervisor, and Carson White, president of Truckee–Donner Chamber of Commerce.

Among those traveling from Nevada City were Bob Paine, Harry Hider, Bub Tobiasson, and other representatives of the board of supervisors, planning commission, chamber of commerce, and Nevada County's metropolitan press.

Awe was freely expressed concerning the amount of snow, most of the visitors being flatlanders or from lesser elevations, and congratulations were offered to Boreal Ridge executives for their accomplishments in developing a first–rate family recreational ski resort on easily accessible Interstate 80.
